

INFORMATION WANTED

A tragic incident occurred on Friday, 17th January 2025, at Canopy in Dorob National Park. Cape Cormorants, an endangered species, were deliberately run over by a vehicle while roosting on the beach.

Cape Cormorants (Phalacrocorax capensis) are an endangered species, that inhabit the coastal and inshore waters of Namibia and South Africa. In Namibia the species has declined by 57% during the last three decades (Crawford et al. 2007b). This species requires effective and concerted monitoring and conservation action.

We are offering a reward for information leading to the identification of the person responsible for this act.

REWARD: N$10,000.00

This reward is offered for information that directly leads to the successful arrest and successful prosecution of the suspect(s). Ts & Cs Apply
